

Kristen Littles

Program Manager

Kristen was born and raised in Nassau County, and her love for nature began early. She always had a passion and interest in animals and their natural habitats. She spent the majority of her childhood outside, enjoying and exploring the natural beauty of our special area.

Today, her lifelong passion has led her to be the director of a licensed wildlife sanctuary, Tows and Tails. She and her husband, Beau, spend their time caring for raccoons with various disabilities that are not able to live in the wild. You may see them around town with their most notable raccoon, Crystal. Crystal is a paralyzed raccoon and the sanctuary's educational ambassador. Kristen and Crystal offer educational opportunities in the community by attending events and classroom visits to help people learn about raccoons and wildlife rescue. Kristen's mission is to help more people appreciate and respect this often misunderstood native species.

Kristen brings years of customer service and administrative experience from a decade-long career with the Walt Disney World Resort. Today, she and her husband run a local family-owned towing company, A1A Towing.

Kristen is excited to combine her love of nature with her professional background as the Program Manager with Keep Nassau Beautiful. She is honored to join a team that is committed to helping conserve and protect the natural beauty of our county.
